OPENING OF THE SUEZ CANAL.

PORT SAID, Nov. 17.

To-day was devoted to equipping ourselves in connection with the opening of the canal. The solemn blessing of the canal was given by Pere Hermit, the minister of the Russian Legation. He delivered a sermon, in which he compared the opening of the canal to the opening of the great subterranean passage between the Red Sea and the Mediterranean, which enabled the Israelites, who, he said, had journeyed for many days only by the co-operation in each of the great supernatural agency of numerous miracles, to dispense with many of these gratifications. He then spoke of the history of navigation, which had been granted to Cleopatra. He thanked the Empress Eugenie for her sympathy, and said that Ferdinand De Lesseps for the enormous labor he had made to bring the work to completion. He also returned thanks to Said Pasha, the Viceroy of Egypt, who, he said, had inaugurated the occasion with these grandest festivities. He also thanked the Emperor Napoleon, the Viceroy of Egypt, the Prince of Prussia and Holland, and many foreign agents assisted at the ceremonies, and the generous enthusiasm was manifested.

THE INCREASE DEBT OF THE UNITED STATES—THE CANADA FISHERIES.

LONDON, Nov. 17.

The Times publishes the Chicago dispatch of last week in full, and says: "It is not every day that we have a message from the President of the United States, and even then it is not always that we have a message of the kind. Washington, Paris, and Petersburg, there is great satisfaction at the result of the opening of the canal trade may be turned into new channels and a heavy blow dealt to the nation which controls the trade of the East. We are not sufficiently connected to be discomposed by their unusual progression. Even if we were the English Whig fell behind around Africa, or made settlements in India. No better proof is needed at Port Said than the free competition which awaited as well at the Cape of Good Hope."

THE TERMS OF THE PUBLIC DEBT OF THE UNITED STATES.

LONDON, Nov. 17.

The Times' money article to-day, referring to the movement of American bonds in Europe, observes that it is necessary to recollect that a people liable for a debt are always anxious to get rid of it, forgetting the benefit it brought them. An annual heavy payment made to foreigners has a certain disagreeable element of unpopularity that would exist in the case of indebtedness held at home.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 17.

After a continuous rain for forty-eight hours, the weather cleared off last night, and to-day is bright and pleasant, with a cool breeze from the north. Snow fell to the depth of three and three-quarters inches, with great severity, in again upon us.

Gen. Daniel Dustin, of the Quincy House, was again this morning, and, owing to the severe storm, the arrival of visitors was light.

Secretary of State Hitchcock has been quite sick for the past few days, but is now out. Auditor Brady is also in the city, having returned from his home in Carrollton, where he went to be present at the marriage of his daughter.

Ex-Governor Bissell has been quite sick for the past few days, but is now out. Auditor Brady is also in the city, having returned from his home in Carrollton, where he went to be present at the marriage of his daughter.

The Springfield Zouaves have been in-night for the purpose of giving an exhibition drill, but owing to the storm they will be able to do so to-night. It is understood here that the Zouaves will be invited to visit Chicago, and they have 200 chairs for that purpose.

The Grocery tournament will take place here on the 24th inst., and the best drilled and most expert companies will contest for the championship.

All of the State and government offices, and the banks and insurance offices, will be closed to-morrow to celebrate Thanksgiving Day, as proclaimed by the Governor. Business will be suspended on Friday.

QUINCY.

Murder Cases—Attempted Highway Robbery.

Special Dispatch to The Chicago Tribune.

QUINCY, Ill., Nov. 17.

Our previous dispatch stating that Jas. Ledford was the supposed party who shot and killed John Hooks, a short distance from Hamilton, Mo., in Van County, Ill., on Saturday night, was correct. The Hamilton (Ohio) Courier publishes a letter to the editor, stating that Ledford gave himself up to the authorities of Van County, and is being a justifiable homicide.

There is a rumor on the street here to-day to the effect that a man named Ledford was shot and killed by a man whose name we did not learn, at Hooks' house, on Saturday night, and was robbed. It is said that Ledford had a large amount of money with him, and was robbed of it by Hooks.

An attempt was made on Saturday night to rob the store of the Ivy Grove Mills, in this county, but was frustrated by the timely arrival of the proprietor. The burglars were evidently frightened off before they had time to secure any booty.

MILITARY REUNION.

Meeting of the Society of the Army of the Tennessee at Louisville.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 17.—The Society of the Army of the Tennessee met at half-past 1 o'clock to-day. The meeting was called to order by General Sherman, who introduced Governor Palmer, General Wilson, Stanwood, and Gen. Grant, who, on coming forward, were invited to take seats upon the stage. Governor Palmer was then introduced, and addressed the meeting.

Governor Brandlett, of Kentucky, was also introduced to a seat on the stage.

General Sherman then introduced, and in the name of the Executive Committee welcomed, the Society of Louisville, and extended the hospitalities of the city to the society which might be made with pleasure. He then introduced Gen. Grant, who was received with great applause. He was followed by speeches in a social feeling. In the course of the evening a dispatch was received from Memphis, with good feeling expressive the greatest success of the meeting. Letters were also received from Gen. Sheridan, Gen. Logan, and Gen. Schofield, all of the Army of the Tennessee, regretting their inability to be present.

Gen. Sherman, in the course of the evening, proposed a regular annual reunion. Those being the only regular meetings of the society, they were the gallant members. The first in the field was Gen. Grant, and he was followed by the rest on the list, who responded by the vote of the society. Gen. Sherman, in the course of the evening, read a letter from Gen. Sheridan, in which he stated that he had been informed in consulting terms to the death of Gen. Custer, and that he had been informed that the remains would carry home by rail. Gen. Sheridan also stated that he had been informed that the remains would carry home by rail.

At the conclusion of General Lauderer's remarks General Sherman was introduced to the meeting, and in a few words welcomed the society to the city of Louisville, and to the hospitalities of the citizens of the State. He then introduced Governor Palmer, who, in a few words, welcomed the society to the city of Louisville, and to the hospitalities of the citizens of the State.

The Governor then introduced Gen. Grant, who, on coming forward,

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.

The members of the United States, we may believe when they say, in answer to the usual question, that Washington is the point of concentration of the intelligence and refinement of the country, and England refuses to see in the House of Commons any thing but the flower of "our set," and Paris, with its usual modesty, calls itself the center of the universe, and Rome, with its usual humility, declares itself the mistress of the world, so we may believe that Congress is the center of the political universe.

ARKANSAS.

A Fruit Region.

Fayetteville and Its Vicinity.

A "Mountain Fed."

The Home of Provisional Governor Murphy.

LITTLE ROCK, Nov. 4.

From the Southern or Interoceanic Governor Murphy's home, Fayetteville, the county seat of Washington County, is a pleasant city of sixteen hundred inhabitants, situated in the midst of a fine agricultural country—but one that has been somewhat neglected by immigrants. Most persons who commence farming with only a little money, and no capital to speak of, prefer to go where they can get cheap land, and where the soil is known to be rich and productive. Consequently, many fine farms can be purchased in this county at low prices, and on very easy terms. Not so, however, with the city of Fayetteville. Here, in the middle of every grain and fruit-growing, mill-building, and mineral-bearing county in Arkansas, property is held at high figures. Lots in the city, even in an unimproved condition, command from $100 to $500 each, and improved property is held at proportionately high rates. Still, there is a good deal of building going on, and the city is rapidly improving. The streets are broad, and crossing each other at right angles, and crossing a stream of the Wild River, separate the town of Fayetteville, situated upon the summit of a hill 1,200 feet above the level of the sea, from the suburb of Mount Sequoyah, which is also situated upon a hill, but not so high as that upon which the city proper is built. Mount Sequoyah is a most attractive appearance, and, indeed, so, to speak, made its mouth of beautiful cottages, surrounded by well cultivated grounds, and with a variety of shrubbery and choice trees, with, here and there, a more extensive, expensive and pretentious mansion, as well as the buildings of a female public school, recently built at a cost of several thousand dollars, and which is now under the superintendence of Miss Sarah Dickson, a lady extensively well known as a superior teacher of female youth.

The river supplies the country surrounding Fayetteville with an abundance of fish, and the forests with game. One of these, the Rhododendron, is a very little known, but a most beautiful and fruitful member of the "Cherish Family" tree, and which, from its appearance, is worthy of a more extended notice than I can give it at present. In the month of April, May, June, and July, from the limbs of the Rhododendron hang in clusters, like grapes, a fruit about the size of a small plum, and which, when ripe, is of a dark purple color, and is very delicious to the taste. Probably no man ever lived who, possessing a taste for fruit, has always a ready perfect relish for the delicious and luscious fruit of the Rhododendron. Before he landed upon an occasion to harvest and surfeit his breast, and, thereafter, he was content to eat of the fruit in moderation.

The Fayetteville Democrat, a paper published in the interest of Governor Murphy, finds its support upon an extensive circulation throughout the State, and is ably conducted. It is now in its fifth year, and is a credit to the town in which it is published. The Democrat office is also the publication office of the Arkansas Mountaineer, a paper devoted to the interests of the Mountain Fed, and which is also ably conducted. Fayetteville has a population of about 1,200 persons, and is the county seat of Washington County, which has a population of about 20,000 persons. The county is divided into townships, each township having a justice of the peace, who, with the county judge, constitutes the county court, which has jurisdiction of all matters relating to the county, such as the laying out and opening of roads, the granting of licenses to keep ferries, and the like. The county court also has jurisdiction of all matters relating to the county, such as the laying out and opening of roads, the granting of licenses to keep ferries, and the like.

IN BANKRUPTCY.

Thomas T. Bouton and Samuel Roberts (T. T. B. & Co.), of the City of Chicago, in the county of Cook and State of Illinois, and Thomas T. Bouton, of Chicago, in the county of Cook and State aforesaid, individually, by Thomas T. Bouton, one of their number, duly authorized for that purpose, filed their petition praying that they may be decreed to have been duly discharged from all debts and claims which existed against them on the 25th day of September, A. D. 1869, the day on which they were duly adjudged bankrupt, and from all debts and claims which are by law provable against their estate under the Bankrupt Act of March 2, 1867, and the acts amendatory thereof, except such debts as are excepted by law from the operation of a discharge in bankruptcy. Ordered by the Court that the 20th day of December, A. D. 1869, at 10 o'clock a. m., before the Court, at the Court Room in Chicago, be appointed for the hearing of said petition, when and where any creditor who has proved his debt may appear and oppose the discharge of the bankrupts. And it is further ordered that notice thereof be published in the Chicago Tribune, a newspaper printed in said district, and that all known creditors and other persons in interest may appear at said time and place and show cause, if any they have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted.

THANKSGIVING.

How the Day Will be Observed in the Theatres and Churches.

To-day will be celebrated by the citizens of Chicago, and of the State generally, in a manner becoming the occasion. Business will be suspended, and unlimited time will be given to all, fortunate enough to have accumulated by not to mince the word of the day, THE FEAST. Thanksgiving Day comes upon us in a stately way. The leaves have departed, the air is crisp, and the earth wears a sere brown dress, rustling softly, but with a warm air to it, which seems to invite us to make the festal board appear more substantive and appetizing than ever. To a large extent Thanksgiving Day will serve as do the other days of the year, to bring together the members of families and friends, and will be a day of rejoicing and pleasure.

Patrick O'Grady, a hackman, for not having his license and other number, was fined $5 and costs by Justice Boyington.

THE INHABITABLE INSTITUTIONS.

In the various institutions of the city, charitable and reformatory, the day will be observed in a manner to give the inmates a pleasant remembrance of it. At the Reform School, on the West Side, the boys will have a good dinner, with turkey, chicken, and all the delicacies of the season, and will be allowed a romp on the play-ground. At the Bridewell, on the South Side, the prisoners will have their usual fare, with the addition of a good dinner. To a large number of the inmates of the Alms-House, on the West Side, Thanksgiving Day will come as do the other days of the year, to bring together the members of families and friends, and will be a day of rejoicing and pleasure. WALSH, THE BUSHWHACKER.

Visit to the Cell of the Confessed Wife-Slayer.

A Repentance of the Man and His Sacrifice.

Opportunities for Self-Destruction.

Every human being is more or less of a curiosity, and the man who has taken the life of his wife will be looked upon for some time with curiosity. Walsh, the murderer, is no exception to the rule. He is a curiosity, and a great one. Everybody who has heard of the murder wants to see him, and to hear him tell his story. Many have visited him, and many more will do so before he is removed from the jail. The Tribune reporter visited him yesterday, and found him in his cell, which is the second one on the north side of the second tier of cells in the jail. The cell is a small one, and is furnished with a bed, a chair, and a table. Walsh was sitting on the bed when the reporter entered, and was reading a book. He looked up as the reporter entered, and then resumed his reading. He is a man of about 40 years of age, and has a pleasant face. He is not a man of prepossessing appearance, but is not repulsive. He is a man of medium height, and has a full beard. He is dressed in a suit of clothes, and has a hat on his head. He is a man of few words, and seems to be very much absorbed in his reading. From the New York Sun, Nov. 15.

When the Kearsarge, man-of-war, Layring bound and had taken her into Simon, Captain J. M. Hatfield, of the Chepeden, was arrested, and the following is a statement of the case, as given by the Captain:

To the Inspector, in Command of the Kearsarge, Simon Bay:

SIR: I, Benjamin Lard, a native of Maine, on the 16th inst., while the Cuban transport Chepeden, which I have command of, was lying at anchor in the harbor of Simon, was arrested by the officers of the United States man-of-war Kearsarge, and brought on board of that vessel, and now my vessel and the crew are under the charge of the officers of the Kearsarge. I am informed that I am charged with having violated the laws of the United States by carrying arms and ammunition to the Cuban insurgents, and that I am to be tried by a court-martial on board the Kearsarge.
